

Infinova Drew Overwhelming Attention on IFSEC 2014 India

The recently concluded IFSEC 2014 ended on a highly successful note at Pragati Maidan, New Delhi, India. The three-day (Dec.11-13) exposition witnessed the cutting edge security technologies, products, solutions and services.

Infinova, as a top 50 security provider, attended the exhibition with surveillance cameras, video management software, and other top-notch security solutions. Understandably, we were the focus this year due to the recent success with some of the City Surveillance Project in India. Our booth grabbed good attention and welcomed a large visitor flow due to the booth space and open structure. We saw more visitors in our booth this year and a mix of existing and new visitors who showed key interest in our products and solutions. Many of them are eager to work with Infinova in their projects.

We were pleased to launch our completely new look and feel VMS V2217 at the show, which certainly caught attention of many eyes, particularly due to its premium look, large icons and advanced features. Our partners who visited the show were extremely happy to see this change in the software and agreed that its premium look and features will certainly bring positive responses from the end customer as well.

We demonstrated performance of our 360 degree fisheye camera as well as other Infinova cameras on V2217 VMS and on our hardware based Embedded VMS which was displayed over a large LCD Screen. There were also many government and police officials who showed interest in our product offering and expressed the desire to test our solution for their projects.

Taking forward the momentum from this year's show, we have signed up with UBM for a larger booth space next year.
